No-Fault: Michigan's Unique Auto Insurance Law

Michigan is generally recognized as having a unique no-fault auto insurance law that mandates unlimited medical benefits for people buying auto insurance.

In the U.S., there are two systems that provide compensation to persons injured in automobile accidents: the traditional tort system and the “no-fault” approach.

A tort is a civil wrong, injury, or damage other than breach of contract. Under the tort compensation system, the person at fault in an accident — or the person’s insurance company — pays damages. This requires a finding of fault, sometimes by a court, before benefits are paid.

Under a no-fault system, which became effective in Michigan in 1973, fault usually is not at issue; a person's own insurance company pays for medical expenses and lost wages, regardless of who caused the accident. The objective of the no-fault system is to eliminate delays and costs of court disputes associated with the tort system. Twelve states and Puerto Rico have some variety of no-fault automobile insurance.

Michigan has the highest no-fault medical benefits in the nation. The Michigan no-fault insurance policy must cover all reasonable and necessary charges for lifetime medical care, including rehabilitation. No other state in the country provides such high benefits. The Michigan policy also provides up to three years of lost wages and replacement services. Under no-fault, these benefits usually are paid without the need to file a lawsuit.

The no-fault law in Michigan permits lawsuits only under certain circumstances. A lawsuit for damages is prohibited unless a victim’s injuries result in death, serious permanent disfigurement, or serious impairment of body function.

Mandatory Coverages

All drivers in Michigan are required by law to have three mandatory insurance coverages.

Personal Injury Protection (PIP)

Benefits are paid to accident victims by their own insurance company. These include the following:

- All reasonable and necessary medical expenses
- Up to three years of lost wages. This is subject to an annual cost-of-living adjustment. Higher benefit limits may be purchased.
- Up to $20 per day, for a maximum of three years, for "replacement services." This pays for services which the injured person cannot perform.
- Funeral and burial expense benefits.

Personal Injury Protection coverage applies to accidents occurring throughout the US and Canada.

Property Protection

This provides coverage for damage caused by your car to property of others (except moving vehicles), regardless of fault.

- Coverage is provided up to $1 million maximum.
- Vehicles are excluded from coverage unless properly parked.
- Property Protection does not apply to accidents occurring outside the state of Michigan.

Residual Liability

This provides protection if you are sued or legally responsible:

- In accidents involving death, serious impairment of body function or permanent, serious disfigurement.
- When actual economic losses sustained in an accident exceed the PIP benefits available.
- In accidents occurring outside of Michigan, for property damage and bodily injury.

The required limits of this coverage are $20,000 for one person's injury, $40,000 for all persons injured in one accident and $10,000 for property damage. Higher limits may be purchased.

Auto Insurance

Optional Coverages

Insurance companies also offer several optional coverages as a part of the no-fault insurance policy.

Collision Insurance is available in three forms.

- Regular or Standard - pays for damage to your vehicle, regardless of who is at fault. You always pay the deductible.
- Broad - pays for damage to your vehicle regardless of who is at fault for an accident. But if you were more than 50 percent at fault, you pay the deductible.
- Limited - pays for damage to your vehicle only if you were not more than 50 percent at fault in an accident.

Comprehensive - pays for damage to your car resulting from causes other than collision, such as fire and theft.

Uninsured Motorists/Underinsured Motorists-pays what you would be legally entitled to collect for injuries caused by an uninsured/underinsured

Driving record. Good drivers pay lower premiums than those motorists with tickets and/or at-fault accidents.

Where the driver lives. More auto accidents and thefts occur in urban areas than in suburban or rural areas. Due to the increased risk, people who live in urban areas usually pay higher premiums.

Type and use of car. The cost of insuring a car depends not only on its value, but safety features and cost to repair.

Coverages selected. In Michigan, drivers are required to carry Personal Injury Protection, Property Protection and Residual Liability; however, there are several "you choose" coverages available to motorists.

There are other social and economic factors which have an impact on the premium motorists pay for auto insurance coverage.

Social inflation. The term does not refer to specific social programs, but to rising costs brought on by the prevailing attitudes of society. More people are suing each other and today's juries are prone to grant larger awards. The cost of paying high court awards, settlements and even the expense of defending lawsuits translates into higher premiums.

Health care costs. The average Personal Injury Protection (PIP) claim in Michigan in 2013 was $46,022. From 2003 to 2013, the average PIP claim rose more than 129 percent.

Crime. In 2012, 24,973 vehicles were stolen in Michigan. The amount paid for this crime through premiums is around $50 to several hundred dollars a year, depending on geographic location and value of the vehicle. Fraudulent claims are rising also.

Statutory benefit increases. Under Michigan's no-fault law, the maximum work loss benefit payable to persons injured in auto accidents is adjusted each year to reflect changes in the National Consumer Price Index. When no-fault became law in 1973, the maximum work loss benefit was $1,000 per month or $36,000 over a three-year period. Today, the monthly benefit has risen to $5,282 — or about $190,000 for three years.

Factors Which Determine The Cost Of Auto Premiums

In 2011, the average auto premium per car in Michigan was $1,110 a year, up from $1,073 in 2010, according to the National Association of Insurance Commissioners.

Michigan's Essential Insurance Act provides that rates shall not be excessive, inadequate or unfairly discriminatory. It further limits the factors an insurance company can use to determine the price of an auto policy. Following are just some of the classifications used to determine how much car insurance will cost.

Driver age, length of driving experience or number of years licensed to operate a vehicle.

Statistics indicate that more experienced drivers are involved in fewer accidents.

Uninsured Motorists

The Insurance Research Council (IRC) in 2011 released a study that found one in seven drivers across the United States are uninsured. According to the study, although the estimated percentage of uninsured drivers decreased from 14.9 in 2003 to 13.8 in 2009.

The IRC study estimates Michigan's uninsured motorists rate at 19.5 percent. That rate is estimated to be as high as 50 percent in some urban areas.

The Insurance Research Council calculations estimate the uninsured driver population using a ratio of insurance claims made by individuals who were injured by uninsured drivers to claims made by individuals who were injured by insured drivers during 2009.

The IRC also found a strong correlation between the percent of uninsured motorists and the unemployment rate.

Michigan Catastrophic Claims Association

What is the MCCA?

The Michigan Catastrophic Claims Association (MCCA), an unincorporated nonprofit association, was created by the Michigan Legislature in 1978. The MCCA reimburses auto no-fault insurance companies for Personal Injury Protection (PIP) (medical) claims that exceed the current threshold of $530,000. That means that the injured party's insurance company pays the first $530,000 of medical expenses and the MCCA reimburses the insurance company for benefits paid over that amount.

What is the purpose of the MCCA?

Michigan is the only state in the country that provides unlimited coverage for medical expenses which result from auto accidents. So, individuals who are injured in auto accidents will receive reasonable and necessary medical benefits for their entire lifetime. The cost to run such a system is expensive. Without the MCCA, the stability of any insurance company could be threatened if it were faced with a series of catastrophic claims.

The MCCA currently pays out about $80 million each month for claim costs resulting from catastrophic injuries.

How is the MCCA funded?

The 1978 law requires all insurance companies that write automobile insurance in the state of Michigan to be members of the MCCA. The law specifies that the MCCA must distribute losses among all auto insurance companies doing business in the state of Michigan. The assessments paid to the MCCA by insurance companies are reflected in the auto insurance premiums paid by Michigan policyholders.

How does the MCCA determine its assessment?

The law requires the Association to assess an amount that is sufficient to cover the lifetime claims of all persons catastrophically injured in that year.

During the period of July 1, 2011 through June 30, 2012, it is estimated that 850 individuals will be catastrophically injured in auto accidents. The MCCA also adjusts the annual assessment to compensate for surpluses or deficits from previous assessments.

What is the assessment for the MCCA?

The 2012-13 assessment is $186.00 per car. It represents $156.44 per vehicle for pure premium (for accidents arising under insurance policies with the effective dates between July 1, 2013 and June 30, 2014), $29.19 for partial deficit recoupment and 37 cents for administrative expenses. The $29.19 only recoups part of the deficit estimated at $300 per car.

Historic vehicles pay 20 percent of the assessment or $37.20 in 2013-14.

How much has the MCCA paid out for claims?

The MCCA paid out $947 million in 2012 for claim costs.

How many claims have been reported to the MCCA?

Since 1979, there have been over 29,474 claims reported to the MCCA, which will cost an estimated $83 billion. The majority of these catastrophic injuries involve closed-head injuries, paraplegia, quadriplegia and burns.

Who is on the Board of Directors for the MCCA?

The Board of Directors of the MCCA is comprised of five member insurance companies that write over 50 percent of the state's auto insurance. Those member companies are appointed by the Commissioner of the Michigan Office of Financial and Insurance Regulation. The Commissioner serves as an ex-officio member.

Financial Responsibility Laws By State

Most states require vehicle owners to purchase a minimum amount of bodily injury and property damage liability to protect them if they are sued or legally responsible for damages. All states have financial responsibility laws. To comply with financial responsibility laws, most drivers purchase auto insurance. In Michigan, drivers must purchase no-fault insurance which includes minimum liability limits of 20/40/10. The first two figures refer to bodily injury liability and the third figure to property damage liability. For example, 20/40/10 means coverage up to $40,000 for all persons injured in an accident, subject to a limit of $20,000 for one individual, and $10,000 coverage for property damage.

Discounts

Insurance companies offer rate discounts to policyholders for such things as insuring two or more vehicles with the same company, low mileage, safety belt use, air bags and anti-theft devices. Discounts vary by company, however. Some of those discounts offered are:

Good Student Discount - Limited to high school or full-time college students over the age of 16. It's usually contingent on maintaining a B or better grade average.

Anti-theft Device Discount - Available from some companies when vehicles are equipped with alarms or disabling devices that reduce exposure to theft.

Multi-Car Discount - Available to those who insure two or more cars on the same policy.

Multiple Policy Discount - Available from some companies to individuals carrying more than one type of policy (i.e. auto, home with the same company).

Safety Feature Discounts - Available from some companies to drivers of cars with air bags or antilock brakes.

Good Credit Discount - Some companies offer a discount for those individuals who maintain good credit.

The Michigan Auto Insurance Placement Facility

The Michigan Automobile Insurance Placement Facility (Facility) is Michigan's residual market mechanism for automobile insurance. It was established by Chapter 33 of the Michigan Insurance Code to guarantee that automobile insurance is available to Michigan citizens who are unable to obtain automobile insurance in the competitive market.

Effective January 1, 1981, the Essential Insurance Act of 1979 converted the Facility from an assigned risk plan to a joint underwriting association (JUA). A JUA is a pooling mechanism under which a limited number of companies act as servicing carriers. JUA administrative costs and operating results are shared among the member companies in proportion to their competitive market business. Member companies are all carriers writing auto insurance in the state of Michigan.

Six members currently act as JUA servicing carriers, five for private passenger business and one for commercial business. The five private passenger carriers are Allstate Insurance Company, Auto Club

Insurance Association, Auto-Owners Insurance Company, Citizens Insurance Company of America, and State Farm Mutual Auto Insurance Company. The commercial carrier is Amerisure Mutual Insurance Company.

A Board of Governors consisting of seven representatives from participating member companies, two insurance agent representatives, and two public representatives administer the Facility. The company representatives are elected annually by the member companies. The Commissioner of Insurance appoints the agent and public representatives.

MAIPF is available to persons who (a) own a motor vehicle registered or to be registered in Michigan, or (b) have a valid driver's license, or (c) are eligible for the restoration of their Michigan driver's license upon the filing of proof of financial responsibility. Commercial applicants must have their operating headquarters (the chief or usual place of business) in the state of Michigan or vehicles to be insured must be required to maintain security by Section 3102 of the Michigan Insurance Code.

Applicants may apply for coverage through any licensed Michigan agent and may choose the servicing carrier to issue the policy. Assignments are made in accordance with the applicant's preference whenever possible. However, placement of applications is subject to the Facility's contract with its servicing carriers. The Servicing Carriers accept a minimum percentage of applications equal to their voluntary market share from the second prior year. Their maximum share may be three times its voluntary market share or as requested, whichever is less.

MAIPF also administers HEAT® (Help Eliminate Auto Thefts), a program that rewards citizens for information leading to the arrest and prosecution of suspected car thieves, the issuance of a warrant for carjackers, and the arrest and binding over for trial of suspected theft ring or chop shop members. (For more information on HEAT®, see Chapter on Insurance Related Crime.)

How To Save Money On Your Auto Insurance

Michigan policyholders can make choices that help control what they pay for automobile insurance.

Despite the many factors which continue to increase insurance payout for auto accidents – such as the rising costs of health care and auto repair – motorists can make decisions which will help control or even lower what they pay for their individual coverage.

Here are a few tips:

- Select your car carefully – rates are based on factors including: cost, repairability, performance characteristics, and likelihood of being stolen.
- Coordinate personal injury protection coverage if you have other accident and health insurance.
- Choose higher deductibles on collision and comprehensive coverage.
- Choose a different type of collision insurance – but make sure you understand when you're covered and when you're not.
- If you have an older car, consider dropping both collision and comprehensive coverage. Policies generally cover no more than the actual cash value of the vehicle (depreciated value).
- Shop around. Look for the best combination of coverage, price and service. If you need background information about a particular company(s), call the Michigan office of Financial and Insurance Regulation at 800-999-6442 or visit www.michigan.gov/ofir.
